Tailwind Capital Director Chairs U.S. Regional Airline Conference in Washington DC

September 8th, 2008

Bryson Monteleone, Marketing Director for Tailwind Capital LLC, chaired the opening day of Commercial Aviation Online's U.S. Valuation Conference held each year in Washington DC. With a full day's agenda tailored to the regional airline market and related markets for regional aircraft, Monteleone facilitated speaker panels and presentations on key issues concerning the regional airline sector. Key issues included: Bombardier's new C-Series, the fate of regional airlines in the shadows of their struggling legacy partners, and specific values and market trends for regional aircraft.

Tailwind Capital, LLC continues to be an active participant in the regional jet market as it launches the Hemisphere 200XR program, converting Bombardier CRJ-200LR aircraft into high-specification VIP aircraft. Customers that order aircraft within a specified lead-time are able to customize their aircraft and feature a brand new interior/exterior, but still reflect the discounted pricing of a used aircraft. Aircraft include auxiliary fuel tanks and can be EASA certified.
